Captain's Log — Moving Cows

Here's what I've learned this week (let's be clear, it's a lesson that repeats often) – you can't really do anything in a vacuum for very long. You need to rely on your people.

Doing this paper, some weeks with not a lot of help, takes a person from slogging through the brutal pits of hell to flying through the clouds of "we did it!" on an almost hourly basis. Most days we just put our head down and go. And go. And go. And then it's four months later and we're still here just pushing.

Very often when you're head-down-going-9-0 it takes someone from the outside to come in and jar you back to reality. Someone who is standing back looking at the big picture.

When I was a kid, my dad would explain it this way: When you're out moving cattle through the tamaracks and the Russian Olives, it's easy to get lost physically or to lose a sense of time. Sometimes the best thing you can do is take a run over to Rattlesnake Hill and from that higher vantage point see where your cattle are and where they need to be. Get a big picture, so to speak before you get back down there in the brush with them so you can readjust and push on through.

He would say, "You need to do that with your own life from time to time, Rachel." We had a bit of a readjustment this week from several of our friends and co-workers. We're working on some cool new ideas and options and it's really fun. We got some zoom back.

So, while we get these new cattle in line and work on getting our ideas moving for you, we'll be right here...

Flooding Advisory in Effect

County Works to Relieve High Water Flows

By Leanna Lehman

When people think of Nevada, an overabundance of water is generally not what comes to mind, even in the Sierras. But that is exactly what is happening right now. So much water Churchill County Commissioners approved the construction of a second weir to help divert the rapidly rising snowmelt feeding the Carson River, which ultimately flows through the Lahonton Reservoir and throughout the valley.

The first weir, constructed in 2017, formed a break in the V-Line canal and was created to relieve high water flows and release surplus water into the desert as floods threatened many homes and structures along the banks of the Carson River and in its immediate vicinity. The second weir, bearing a hefty price tag of $5.5 million, is being dug in anticipation of higher water flows that could far exceed 2017. The county is also working to clear limbs and debris from the Big Dig canal to ensure that water flow is as unobstructed as possible.

After a March 16 aerial tour of areas impacted by rain, snowmelt, and high-water flows, Governor Joe Lombardo amended his March 10 declaration for a State of Emergency. Initially, Douglas, Lyon, and Churchill were named in that order. However, after Lombardo's tour, Carson City, Esmeralda, Elko, Eureka, Humboldt, Lincoln, Mineral, Nye, Storey, White Pine, and Washoe counties, along with the Walker River Paiute Tribe, Yerington Paiute Tribe, and the Yomba Shoshone Tribe were also deemed as impacted by ongoing water and weather events. The amendment enables these areas to receive state and federal assistance to mitigate potential flood damage and repair infrastructure, as flooding is anticipated throughout the region.

The US Geological Survey (USGS) reports that flooding is more common in Nevada's Great Basin than expected. Most floods in the Carson River Basin, which spans about 4,000 square miles, have resulted from rain-on-snow events and moisture-laden air from the Pacific Ocean in the form of Atmospheric Rivers (See bit.ly/3M2fCS9 for more information). According to the USGS, such events often cause widespread flooding and subsequent damage throughout the basin. As the Carson River is not a deeply incised channel as is found in larger rivers across the country, rising water levels flow outward to the adjacent flood plains. The Carson River can usually accommodate the snowmelt as it gradually feeds into the river. However, this year, record snowpack and warm spring rains have drastically increased the volume and speed of snowmelt, which can overwhelm the flood plain, which becomes a discharge surface.

Churchill County and the City of Fallon urge residents to be aware of the rapidly changing water situation and prepare for potential high-water events. More rainfall, snow, and severe weather conditions are expected, increasing the risk of flood in the area. The National Weather Service issued a flood advisory for a dam floodgate release, now in effect until 5 p.m. on April 10. The advisory noted that potential prolonged minor flooding and high flows along the Carson River are anticipated due to the dam release. Residents of low-lying areas, including Bafford Lane, should take extra care to safeguard against flooding. Vehicles are advised to turn around when faced with flooded roads, as most flood deaths occur in vehicles.

From Churchill County: The High Water Call Center continues to provide non-emergency resources for citizens seeking information about potential flooding. (Open M-F 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.)

Sandbags are available for pick-up at 485 Miner's Road (M-F 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m., and on weekends from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.)

The hour-long video of the March 23 high-water town hall is available at: https://www.youtube.com/@churchill-county/videos and a written summary of the town hall is available on the county's website at: https://www.churchillcountynv.gov/CivicAlerts.aspx?AID=544

Obituaries

Jean Marie Workman

Jean Marie Workman, one of Churchill County's oldest residents, has passed from this life into the presence of God after 102 years and 20 days of living. Jean was born in Rosemead, California on February 17, 1921, and died in her Fallon home on Workman Road on March 9, 2023. She was preceded in death by her infant son Timothy Rawson, her parents Russell and Martha Rawson, her husband, Rex Workman, and her daughter, Lani (Art) Peel. Jean is survived by her son, David (Louise) Workman; 6 grandchildren, Tim Peel, Jeff (Dana) Peel, Cheryl (Andy) Gallio, Tami (John) Gormley, Rebecca (Jason) Trento & Mike (Christa) Workman, along with 12 great-grandchildren and 8 great-great-grandchildren.

Jean has seen our world change drastically during her century of life. She was raised during the Great Depression the daughter of a steel worker in southern California. She met her future husband, Rex, during high school days and they later married in June 1942 after Pearl Harbor and Rex's enlistment in the Army Air Corp. Separated by Rex's deployment to the South Pacific, she lived with her parents raising her firstborn daughter, Lani. After Rex's return their military family of three moved around the country, Arizona, South Carolina, and Washington as Rex trained new pilots until the end of War II.

Settling back in Southern California they moved around a bit as Rex tried his hand at commercial trucking, farming (his first love), and laying hardwood floors in all the new tracks of homes being built in those post-war years. During that time Jean suffered multiple miscarriages until David was born in 1949. It was a few years later that Jean attended a small bible study with a neighbor lady and became a Christian, which defined her life for the next 70 years.

In 1957 Rex, Jean, and family moved to Fallon as Rex had the opportunity to pursue farming, which he longed to do. Upon her arrival at the farm, she found a little house with walls made of railroad ties that she turned into a loving home for her family for the next 16 years until Rex was able to build her current home in 1973. Over her next 66 years in Fallon city-girl, Jean learned to be a farm wife, raising, butchering, and freezing pigs, turkeys, and chickens for family use along with canning vegetables and fruit from the family garden that she raised. She helped sell hearts of gold cantaloupes with a host of other Workman-grown produce at the family stand on the Reno Highway that Rex and his nephew, Ted Workman, had for 20 years.

In addition to all the domestic tasks needed for family upkeep, Jean loved to be creative dabbling in painting, ceramic doll-making, and her specialty of making and decorating wedding cakes for her family and church friends. Jean became a member of the First Baptist Church (later became Parkside Bible Fellowship) and soon volunteered to teach the 4 & 5-year-old class of boys and girls, which she continued to do for the next 35 years! One could often walk into her home to find Jean at her kitchen table studying her bible as she prayed and prepared for her next class lesson. Over the course of her adult life in simple, quiet ways Jean devoted herself to loving her God and her family. We have been blessed by God to have her in our lives all this time and we look forward to our reunion with her in Jesus' presence.

There will be a viewing at The Gardens Funeral Home from 4:00-6:00 p.m. on Friday, April 14, 2023. Burial will be private, but friends are invited to a celebration of life at Parkside Bible Fellowship on Saturday, April 15th at 3:00 p.m. followed by a reception.

District Court Law and Motion

By Teresa Moon

The Tenth Judicial District Court convened Tuesday, March 28, with Judge Thomas Stockard presiding.

Logan Chase Anderson pleaded guilty to a Category D Felony of Driving Under the Influence of an Intoxicating Liquor or Controlled or Prohibited Substance, a third or subsequent offense, which is punishable by 1-6 years in Nevada State Prison and a fine of $2,000-$5,000. Sentencing was set for June 20 with a Pre-sentence Investigative Report ordered. Defense Attorney Jesse Kalter stated the defendant has no employment, no home, or support here. He asked that bond be exonerated, and Anderson placed in custody. Stockard so ordered and Anderson was remanded to the custody of the Churchill County Sheriff's Office

Michael DuBois pleaded guilty to a Gross Misdemeanor of Conspiracy to Commit False Imprisonment. The factual basis given by Kalter was that Dubois "did prevent the mother of his four children from leaving a room in the house." Fines and assessments were imposed with Dubois sentenced to 364 days in Churchill County Jail, suspended, and placed on probation for 12 months. Along with standard conditions of probation, Dubois was ordered to enroll and complete a minimum of 26 sessions of Domestic Violence counseling.

Tyler James Rickards, in custody, pleaded guilty to a Category D Felony of Driving Under the Influence of an Intoxicating Liquor or Controlled or Prohibited Substance, a third or subsequent offense, which is punishable by 1-6 years in Nevada State Prison, and a fine of $2,000 - $5,000; and a misdemeanor charge of Tampering with or Driving without a Device to Test a Person's Breath to Continue the Concentration of Alcohol, which is punishable by a possible 6 months in Churchill County Ĵail, a fine of $500 - $1,000 and a mandatory 30 days in Churchill County Jail or 60 days of house arrest. Rickards had a blood alcohol of .429. A Pre-sentence Investigative report was ordered, and sentencing was set for June 20. Rickards was released on his own recognizance with standard conditions along with having an ankle monitor put on, supervision by Court Services, being subject to random testing, not operating a motor vehicle, and provisional admission to DUI diversion program.

Shane Michael Peterson pleaded guilty to the Category D Felony of Driving Under the Influence of an Intoxicating Liquor or Controlled or Prohibited Substance, a third or subsequent offense, which is punishable by 1-6 years in Nevada State Prison and a fine of $2,000 - $5,000. Peterson had a blood alcohol of .214. A Pre-sentence Investigative report was ordered, and sentencing was set for June 20.

Mark Antonio Graham appeared for a change of plea hearing. Graham pleaded guilty to the amended charge of Battery with a Deadly Weapon, a Category B Felony punishable by a potential penalty of 2-10 years in Nevada State Prison and a fine of $10,000. Defense attorney Joseph Gilbert stated that Graham "hit an individual with a bat." A Pre-sentence Investigative report was ordered, and sentencing was set for June 20.

Refugio Alanis Sanchez appeared for arraignment. Attorney Steve Evenson told the court he has not had the opportunity to meet with his client and asked for a continuance. Stockard continued the arraignment to April 25.

Charles Kelly Fulks, Jr. pleaded not guilty to a Category E Felony of Possession of a Controlled Substance, a first or second, which carries a possible penalty of 1-4 years in Nevada State Prison and a fine of $5,000. A trial date will be set administratively.

Paul Anthony Perez pleaded guilty to the Category C Felony of Conspiracy to Commit a Felony crime under the Uniform Controlled Substance Act, a first offense which carries a potential penalty of 1-5 years in Nevada State Prison and a fine of $10,000. PD Wright Noel said Perez did "conspire to sell methamphetamine and furthered the conspiracy by transporting methamphetamine." A Pre-sentence Investigative report was ordered, and sentencing was set for June 20

Regina Marie Swartzbaugh pleaded guilty to a Category E Felony of Possession of a Controlled Substance (methamphetamine) and admitted to a non-technical probation violation of possession of a controlled substance. ADA Aaron Thomas asked for 19-48 months in prison due to the defendant's two priors and her inability to "conform to probation standards." PD Jacob Sommer told the court while he and the defendant understand the state's position, Swartzbaugh has serious health issues, including surgery scheduled in April, her prognosis is grim, and her medical treatment is a concern. Sommer said she has obtained a substance abuse evaluation from New Frontier and asked the court for a chance for her to follow its recommendations. Swartzbaugh apologized to probation and parole, and the court and took responsibility for her actions. She asked for a second chance at probation stating she's scared, she has children that need her to be strong and she needs to stop feeling sorry for herself. On the felony charge, the defendant received a sentence of 12-32 months, suspended, and was placed on probation for 18 months; probation was reinstated on the violation; the sentences to run consecutively. Fees and assessments were imposed. It was ordered the defendant be brought back to court for any violation, whether technical or non-technical.

David Michael Billips appeared for sentencing on a Category E Felony of Possession of a Controlled Substance, and a Gross Misdemeanor of Manufacture, Importation, Possession, or Use of a Dangerous Weapon. ADA Thomas cited Billips "almost three decades worth of crime to his name" in asking for 19-48 months on the E Felony, and 12 months on the Gross Misdemeanor. PD Sommer stated Billips is "currently living a safe, clean lifestyle" and is not proud of his past behaviors. He asked for probation for the defendant. Billips told the court that "since November, I've 180'd my life." Stockard imposed fees and assessments, then sentenced the defendant to 19-48 months in Nevada State Prison on the possession charge, and 364 days in Churchill County Jail on the dangerous weapon charge, to run consecutively. Both sentences were suspended and Billips was placed on probation for 18 months on count 1, and 12 months on count 2 with standard conditions. Billips was ordered to obtain a substance abuse evaluation and to follow the recommen-

Jason James Teeter appeared for sentencing on the Category C Felony charge of Manufacture, Duplication, Possession, or Use of a Deadly Weapon or Silencer, Carrying a Concealed Weapon without a Permit. Teeter told the court that he has learned valuable lessons through this process regarding laws and apologized for wasting everyone's time, telling the judge, "I don't plan to see you in the future." Stockard imposed fees and assessments. Teeter was sentenced to 19-

Law & Order

48 months in Nevada State Prison, suspended, and was placed on probation for 24 months with standard conditions. He was ordered to obtain a substance abuse evaluation and follow its recommendations and not to possess any firearms or dangerous weapons.

Joel Michael Ruddy, in custody, appeared for a review hearing. Ruddy was ordered to Lake's Crossing last September. In checking their records, neither the Churchill County Sheriff's Office nor Defense Counsel Noel had received a copy of the order. The judge ordered copies of the September 30 order be given to the sheriff's office, the defense counsel, and the state. A Review Hearing was set for September 26.

Brian Langiois Calhoun did not appear for his status hearing. PD Sommer told the court that Calhoun is currently at Lake's Crossing where he has been for approximately one month. A status hearing was set for August 29.

Stephanie Ann Collins, in custody, pleaded guilty to Possession of a Controlled Substance (methamphetamine), a first or second offense. A Category E Felony which carries a potential penalty of 1-4 years in Nevada State Prison and a fine of $5,000. ADA Mills told the court there is an associated DUI pending in Justice Court, and Collins has a Court Services history that dates back to 2000. PD Sommer stated the defendant wants treatment in drug court and asked for probation with the condition of Western Regional Drug Court. Collins told the court she has been in counseling since December, is employed, and has been clean and sober for over 11 months. Stockard suspended procedures pending enrollment in, and completion of, diversion through the Western Regional Drug Court. Collins was placed on probation for 12 months with standard conditions. She was ordered to follow the recommendations of her evaluation. Fees and assessments were imposed.

Amanda Sharon Nadeau, in custody, appeared for sentencing on a Gross Misdemeanor charge of Abuse, Neglect, or Endangerment of a Child Not Causing Substantial Bodily Harm. Defense Attorney Evenson stated Nadeau has obtained a substance abuse evaluation and asked that she be released and placed in the drug court program immediately. ADA Lane Mills told the court Nadeau is a moderate risk for reoffending and she is "mostly lying to herself about her problem, it's a significant drug problem." Fees and assessments were imposed. Nadeau was sentenced to 364 days in Churchill County Jail, suspended, placed on probation for 12 months with standard conditions imposed, and ordered to enter and complete the Western Regional Drug Court diversion program with an additional 12 months probation if needed to complete the program. Nadeau will remain in custody until drug court tomorrow.

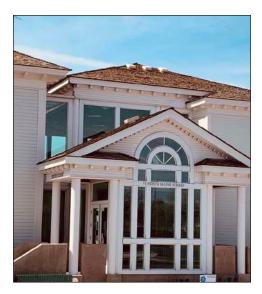

Zackary Keith Bulmer, in custody, appeared for sentencing on a charge of Attempt to Commit Burglary of a Business, a charge that can be sentenced as either a Category E Felony or a Gross Misdemeanor. Bulmer went to a casino where he noticed a credit on a slot machine and cashed it in. ADA Mills quoted the victim's written statement, "we shouldn't have to worry about thieves," in asking that the charge be sentenced as a felony and a prison term be imposed. PD Noel reminded the court, "Let's not forget that what we are talking about $23" in asking the charge be sentenced as a Gross Misdemeanor and the defendant be granted probation. The judge imposed fees and assessments, sentencing the charge as an E Felony, giving Bulmer 14-45 months in Nevada State Prison. Bulmer was remanded to the custody of the Churchill County Sheriff's Office for imposition of the sentence.

Bryan Ray Golding, in custody, appeared for sentencing. PD Sommer told the court there is a pending Justice Court case of a Category E charge of Possession of a Controlled Substance and he believes it is in Golding's interest to make sure all cases are handled together. The judge continued the case to April 4.

Robert Willis Ortiz, in custody, appeared for sentencing on a Category E Felony of Possession of a Controlled Substance (methamphetamine). Ortiz also has a failure to appear for sentencing on March 14. Court Services stated Ortiz failed to appear for any testing. ADA Mills cited Ortiz's criminal history in stating, "It is what it is. We'll submit it to the court as to whether or not to take a chance on Mr. Ortiz. If the past is any indication of the future, that's a very bad bet." PD Sommer said Ortiz would like the opportunity to get treatment, he has seen some changes in the defendant and is hopeful he can make this work and is asking for probation with the condition he is allowed to do drug court. Ortiz told the court he would like a chance for treatment. The judge imposed fees, and assessments and sentenced the defendant to 19-48 months in Nevada State Prison, suspended. Ortiz was placed on probation for 18 months with standard conditions including getting a substance abuse evaluation and following the recommendations, as well as completing Western Regional Drug Court.

Calvin James Johnson, in custody, appeared for a non-technical probation violation of being removed from drug court. Following arguments from ADA Chelsea Sanford and PD Sommer, Stockard deferred disposition and ordered Johnson to remain in custody until he has a bed date at Vitality's residential treatment for substance abuse. He was ordered to return to custody immediately upon release from Vitality whether upon completion of the program or leaving the program.

Legislative Update - Hate Speech, Green Energy, Rural Emergency Hospitals

Staff Report

As the 82nd Legislative Session rolls into the near halfway point, hundreds of bill drafts became bills this week. On Monday, the Assembly added about 14 new bills and the Senate added about 30. Among the bills introduced this week, one that will test the strength of the majority party to override a Governor Veto is SB 227 sponsored by Democratic legislators Senator Pat Spearman and Assemblywoman Cecilia González. Senator Spearman revisited her experiences in 1969 as a black girl growing up in Alabama to make the case for this legislation that loosely defines hate symbols and hate speech that may cause someone to feel "intimidated." In her opening remarks, Sen. Spearman noted that "this bill creates the crime of intimidation."

Per the Legislative Counsel's Digest: Section 1 of this bill defines the term "symbol of hate" to mean a symbol, image, or object that expresses animus on the basis of race, color, religion, ancestry, disability, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, or gender identity or expression. Section 1 provides that a person who etches, paints, draws, or otherwise places or displays a symbol of hate on public property or in plain view of the public with the intent to cause a person to feel threatened or intimidated, deprive a person of any constitutional right or retaliate against a person for exercising any such right is guilty of the crime of intimidation. Section 1 makes the crime of intimidation punishable as a misdemeanor for the first offense, a category E felony for the second offense, and a category D felony for any subsequent offense.

Section 10 of SB227 specifically targets juveniles. Senator Spearman noted that, with the help of this bill, "we must teach children not to hate." Section 10 of this bill requires a juvenile court to:

(1) order the suspension of the driver's license of the 19 child; or (2) if the child does not possess a driver's license, prohibit the child from applying for a driver's license for a period of time. With limited exception, section 10 also requires the juvenile court to order the child to participate in a program designed to reduce prejudice and promote empathy and respect for diversity.

Senators on the committee asked a variety of questions highlighting symbols that could be perceived as intimidating. Republican Senators Jeff Stone and Ira Hanson mentioned that displaying an American flag or Israeli lapel pin could be intimidating to some and therefore subject to a lawsuit. Senator Hanson also noted that his belief in traditional marriage is intimidating to some, and his values could be targeted by the passage of this legislation.

Senator Spearman, an ordained minister, promised future amendments working with their "partners" to "tighten up the language." One constituent, who testified in opposition to the legislation, keenly observed that there weren't any Christian organizations listed as partners.

Meanwhile, in yet another test of his authority as governor, Lombardo issued an Executive Order concerning energy in Nevada. His state energy policy objectives for the next decade include a multi-faceted approach to include solar, wind, geothermal, hydropower, natural gas, hydrogen, and energy storage. The order also highlights energy policies that will ensure Nevadans and businesses will have diverse energy options including gas and electric.

Due to the bipartisan passage of Senate Bill 358 in 2019, which established a goal to achieve a 50% renewal energy portfolio standard by 2030, Lombardo contends state energy policies "must pursue a balanced approach to energy use and development" and support "Nevada's objectives of reliability, affordability, and sustainability."

Section 2 of the order provides that Nevada will "develop sufficient in-state electric generation resources to ensure the needs of all Nevadans are met and ensure that Nevada has sufficient electric generation recourses to mitigate the risk of energy markets not having sufficient electric energy supplies during peak usage."

Fallon's Assemblyman Greg Koenig presented AB277, which would establish Rural Emergency Hospitals as a new type of medical facility licensed in NV and require the DHHS to issue certain Medicaid reimbursements to help these hospitals stay open for rural Nevadans. The Freshman legislator now has 5 primary sponsored bills and has co-sponsored another 32.

Fallon's State Senator Robin Titus has primarily sponsored 49 bills and co-sponsored another 7.

Bighorns Wearing National Blue

By Hunter McNabb

For the 94th time, the Nevada FFA Association convened in Reno to test their knowledge, collaborate with others, and serve the greater Nevada community. This year, the corduroy jacket wave that descended on Reno consisted of more than twenty Oasis FFA Members.

At the convention, students had the opportunity to participate in service projects to help service members and retirees, attend workshops on a variety of topics, and compete in career and leadership development events.

Tyler Seibecker, an Oasis FFA member said, "I had a great time, it was really fun to connect with other chapters from around Nevada. And I am already looking forward to next year."

Throughout the semester, students attended weekly meetings and practices outside of class time to learn more and prepare for their different career development events. They also worked to improve their agricultural knowledge with the advice of Ms. Jackie Bogdanowicz.

"The dedication and hard work the students put in to prepare for state worked. The Oasis FFA chapter brought home several awards. The students did an amazing job representing both Oasis FFA and Fallon. I really am so proud of these kids," said Bogdanowicz.

Senior Spotlight: Lillyahna Mullins

Senior Lillyahna Mullins rides bikes, but not just any bikes, dirt bikes. The Oasis senior has created a name for herself in racing throughout the area and already has several sponsors.

"I love adrenaline, in the simplest terms. I love the thrill of racing and the risk that comes with it and above the risk, the reward. As soon as the flag drops any thoughts disappear for a couple of hours," Mullins said.

Mullins started racing in 2021 in the novice women's class of the Motorcycle Racing Association of Northern Nevada (MRANN) series. She finished her first season in fourth place in her class for the championship. In 2022, she was moved up to the women's amateur class where she held first place for the majority of the season. That year she ended up finishing third. For 2023, Mullins advanced again and is now in the women's expert class.

"I won't always do great, sometimes I have to pick my dirt bike up off the ground a dozen times in a race but crossing the finish line in the end, is crossing the finish line and everyone cheers you on while you do it," she said. "One of the other greatest things about racing is the people. Everyone that shows up shares a common interest and most of them are really down to earth. The best way to put it is that the people I've met racing have turned into a second family for me."

Mullins grew up around dirt bikes and motorsports in general. She got her first dirt bike around the age of six and quickly learned that crashing is a part of the process and even the best of the best crash.

After graduating in May, Mullins will take that love of racing and turn it into a career. She plans to start an apprenticeship as a dirt bike mechanic.

"I've enjoyed my welding classes at school and instructor Jorgen "Jep" Jeppesen. It's the class I've enjoyed the most. Jep created an easy-going atmosphere where I can learn and joke around with friends," said Mullins.

"My advice for future students is to try and stay relaxed, you'll have a lot more going for you after high school is over, find a hobby that is a de-stressor for you and stick with it," she said.

CCSD Weekly Highlights

By Kaitlin Ritchie

CCHS: Teachers at CCHS had a blast connecting, being creative, and making clay bowls in Jaime Shafer's classroom on Wednesday evening. "I wanted to do something fun for our teachers and also thought it would be nice to have them participate in the Empty Bowls project," said Shafer. Students in Shafer's ceramics class have been working tirelessly on making bowls that will be donated to the Empty Bowls project taking place at the Churchill County Library on Sunday, April 16 from 12-3 p.m. The Empty Bowls project is a national movement created by ceramic artists to combat food insecurity in communities.

"The idea is that we make ceramic bowls and host an event where people can come trade non-perishable food items, hygiene items, or cash, and in exchange, they receive a handmade bowl, homemade soup, and bread," said Shafer. All proceeds go toward supporting the CC Library and the Fallon Chamber of Commerce's Karma Box. Last year they had 150 bowls, raised $3,000, and filled three trucks full of food for the Karma Box. "This year, we hope to have at least 250 bowls and to exceed last year's donations," said Shafer, who added that she is grateful for all the support received from the community. "I am also grateful that our student body cares about our community and wants to help by making bowls to donate. We couldn't host this event without our fantastic student artists," said Shafer.

CCMS: Seventh-grade English Language Arts teachers hosted a family engagement podcast event for their students and their families on Wednesday evening. Students made book podcasts for books they read with their book clubs in ELA class and presented their projects. "We wanted to not only encourage our students to share their work with their families but also have a night where we could connect with their families. We are always working to improve family engagement at CCMS and events like these are an incredible opportunity to do just that," said ELA teacher Torri Conley.

Numa: Numa hosted its third quarter SOAR awards assemblies on March 17.

Students that received SOAR awards participated in tribe flash challenges to earn points for their tribes. "Because it was St. Patrick's Day, we had themed challenges such as 'Shamrock Shakers', where the students had to get all the Lucky Charms cereal from one side of the shaker into the other side which was way harder than it looked," said Counselor Noreen Swenson. By the end of the challenges, the Red Tribe earned the most points in both fourth and fifthgrade assemblies, and they also ended up winning for the third quarter. They will be rewarded with donuts and will also get to be the first students to sign up for their choices for Numa's school-wide Activity Day on April 14.

E.C. Best: Third-grade students in Alyssa Tousignant's class worked with rainbow fraction tiles this last week to learn how to compare fractions with different denominators. "Fraction tiles are a great visual representation of fractions that students are able to manipulate to accurately compare fraction sizes and find equivalent fractions," said Tousignant. The students enjoy working with the tiles. "It is so fun to hear them get excited when they find fractions that are equal and to watch how hard they work to find all the equivalent fractions," said Tousignant.

Lahontan: First-grade students in Stacey Manning's class have been learning about reptiles through their class pets, Franklin Turtle and Finley Tortoise. Students read and listened to many fiction and nonfiction stories about reptiles and turtles for two weeks, then they made a sea turtle and wrote a little story about it. "They had a great time learning about and exploring these beautiful creatures. It was fun to not only see the students apply what they learned in class but to also see their creativity really shine through," said Manning.

Northside Early Learning Center: Students in Octavia Merritt's and Montana Koplin's class practiced counting using jellybeans this last week. "I have found this to be a fun way to work with the students on rote counting, 1 to 1 correspondence, color matching and sorting, as well as counting to 10," said Merritt.

Heaven on Earth Horoscopes: March 31 – April 6

We are presently feeling the heavenly influence of finding the courage to take a dive into our emotional depths. Hopefully while we are down there, we find our inner hero, bring that hero up to the surface and make some bold moves towards rescuing ourselves. This energy feels like personal authority, responsibility, discipline, and spiritual growth. I hope you are able to know the power of your inner hero.

Aries — It's time to talk. You may feel like voicing your opinion, moving forward towards resolving a situation, or answering an inner calling you can no longer ignore. This is your strength this week, the shadow side to overcome, is wishing the other party would take this responsibility and show you support in doing so. You will prevail..

Taurus — Questions of commitment become your strength this week. Processing through the options that have you going back and forth can finally come to an end. Overcome the urge to turn back on your decision by focusing on what is right in front of you, the thing precious to you that you would not want to give up on... or lose.

Gemini — Your strength this week is the ability to accept "this is as good as it gets". You may put more energy into a situation that does not yield the desired outcome. Overcome this through acceptance. This may be one of those weeks where we just don't agree, see eye to eye, or just can't get on the same page. Accept and move on.

Cancer – The seat of responsibility is yours this week. This is your anchor that is providing you with the energy and drive to take care of business. You're on a roll, this energy can become an unshakable foundation for you if you take advantage of it now. It can be your anchor, your rock, your seat of authority. Be here now, in your seat.

Leo — You know what will ultimately bring you peace. And your higher consciousness is too loud to ignore this week. This becomes your strength as you are guided to contain your thought process, let it work things out and come to a conclusion that honors your angelon-the-right-shoulder. This will prevent you from acting impulsively.

Virgo — Assign yourself, your situation, or relationship the adjective: significant. Overcome the challenge of the week: feeling powerless or ineffectual by seeing the significance in things. When you place more significance on the things you find worthy of your time and effort, you will find more reason to trust yourself and commit to them.

Libra — The power of initiation rules your week, overcoming the inherent risk of losing, or having to give something up. You'll be able to make the first move. Whether or not what you set in motion works out, there is something else that matters more. It is your decision, and there is power in making a decision, for it sets things in motion.

Scorpio — It may be a damned if you do, damned if you don't kind of week. Wanting to put effort into a situation to improve it may just put you right back into an old loop that you have worked hard to break free from. This week helps you to let go of any wants or needs from another so that you can learn to provide these things for yourself.

Sagittarius — creating your own stability is your strength are some hurt feelings we can get over on our own. This week gives you the strength to self-heal and learn to give yourself the emotional support you might otherwise seek from an outside source. This brings about a positive change in your fate patterns that allows for an opening of your higher consciousness.

Capricorn – The power of restraint is your energy of the week which can help overcome the desire to pursue something that may take a familiar path which leads to an unwanted outcome. Make peace with the situation by taking the alternate path which leads away from the same old, same old. Restraint overcomes reaction.

Aquarius — An old mode of communication has only kept you held back, withdrawn and afraid of getting trapped. Now you have the power to update your method of communication. Out with the old, in with the new. This week brings the opportunity to transition away from the past and take a fresh approach with your communication skills.

Pisces — Nobody is going to steal your sunshine this week. Your person may not be talkative or excited this week, but that still won't dim your light. You will be able to possess the good nature of wanting to create a relationship based on reciprocity. Hold on to the gains you make this week, they will be for you, so don't lose them.

Rebekah Dahl interprets heavenly influences to help bring wisdom, love, and empowerment into our earthly experience.

What's Cookin' in Kelli's Kitchen -- Smoothie Paradise

A weird paradox exists in which people who make food professionally have strange relationships with food. My industry friends often joke about the contents of a culinary professional's home refrigerator: beer, condiments, and to-go containers, but few actual ingredients. I suppose it makes sense that when you get home from work the last thing you want to do on your "off-time" is the same things you do on your "on time." I infrequently cooked for myself and my spouse when I spent 8+ hours a day cooking for other people. Actually, that is one of my favorite things about not working in a kitchen, and my family and friends enjoy the fruits of my culinary labor so much more these days.

So, I have an unhealthy relationship with food. After more than a decade of scarfing down burgers while standing over a trashcan in the ten minutes that are available before the next rush, I tend to ignore the signals that my body gives me. During the week, I am fueled by coffee for most of the day and seek out actual food only when "hungry" turns to "hangry." I recognize that this system is not ideal for my health and wellness, or for my temperament, but old habits are hard to break. As a group, culinary folks wear their self-abuse on their sleeves like a badge of honor: hours worked in a day (12+), hours worked in a week (80+), came in on a day off, went all day without taking a break, and on and on.

Enter the smoothie.

These last few weeks, I have been putting my Vitamix blender into action every morning and the results have been amazing. Before I head out the door, I take exactly five minutes to blend up some veggies and fruit along with yogurt or ricotta cheese and some kind of liquid. I slurp down this nutritious and tasty tonic over the course of the morning and my whole day is better.

Here are a couple of smoothie recipes including my "go-to" mix. Smoothies are also a great vehicle for all sorts of supplements. I have been mixing in some vitex tincture from Great Basin Apothecary to help with all the lady things. Toss in some protein powder, vitamin supplements, some adaptogenic mushrooms, or whatever your jam.

Lodge: An Indoorsy Tour of America's National Parks by Max Humphrey with Kathryn O'Shea-Evans

This historic guide to ten buildings in parks located in the west and southwest managed by the National Park Service is a treat. The lodges were built to accommodate the flood of tourists who flocked to the parks when they were created in the late nineteenth century. These stunning photographs, by David Tsay and Rob Schanz, detail what the buildings and surrounding areas look like today. Included is a brief introduction to each lodge. This is a wonderful book to browse and spend time combing the details.

This title is available in print at the library.

National Vietnam War Veterans Day is acknowledged on March 29 every year, honoring anyone who served during its 20-year time. The day was founded in 2017, since respect and support weren't immediately given to many who served.

In the April 5, 2017 LVN article titled "Proud to Serve" it is mentioned that "150 Nevadans died including seven from Carson City, eight from Fallon, and one each from Minden and Virginia City.
